

Year 5's Antarctica Explorer

For the Year 5 section of this blog, we would like to share our visit from the brave Antarctica explorer Barnabus and his canine companion Phyllis.

Barnabus and Phyllis visiting the Year 5 children.

It was just an ordinary school day when the children arrived on the school playground with no expectations about what was going to happen. All of a sudden, from around the corner, Barnabus and Phyllis appeared with their sledge. All the kids went: “Cuuuuuuuttte” for Phyllis and, “Hiiiiiiiiiiiiiii” to Barnabus.

The Year 5 students had many questions some answered and some not, which left them wanting to write out these facts in a newspaper report. They also managed to produce diaries from Barnabus 's point of view about his adventures in Antarctica, including the incredible story of how Phylis the pug saved him when he fell into a crevice.

About a week later, the children had finished their outstanding newspaper reports and diaries. Many of the Year 5 students had completed such well written newspapers, that the teachers decided to let them produce these in actual reports. Some of these reports are currently on display in the Year 5 stairwell.
