

Author visit

An author visited the school, and 80 children were selected to see her. The author's name was Colin R Parsons. They got to have a workshop. And in that workshop they got to write a story. Someone who went said, "I liked it and I especially liked writing the story!" Another person said, "It was so much fun but I didn't like writing the story."

All the people I asked had different opinions. Some people liked writing the story but other people didn't. One person liked everything and said, "It was good because we wrote a story and we got to buy a book and get it signed."

Overall, it looks like everybody enjoyed their time with the author, even though some people found writing the story hard.

By A.H.K